Greenwood's aging town buildings in need of a lot of work

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Greenwood's town office building is in "sad shape," David Brown told the town selectmen last week, and the town's other municipal buildings are not much better off.

Brown and Rodney Harrington, members of the town's recently formed Capital Improvement Committee, were at the selectmen's meeting to present the first in a series of reports on the town's infrastructure.

The initial meeting was devoted to the "status and condition of town-owned buildings, including handicap accessibility."

Those major buildings include the town office, town hall, town garage and the fire stations in Locke Mills and Greenwood City.

Most of the buildings have structural problems.

Some are too small for the functions they are intended to serve.

None are sufficiently handicap accessible.

And all are extremely inefficient — and expensive — to heat.

Brown started his inventory with the town office, a converted school house built in three stages over a 43-year period, beginning in 1890.

"The foundation is in sad shape; the beams are in sad shape; the floor joists are in sad shape; the rear-entry door is in sad shape," Brown said, and there are serious drainage, electrical and access problems in the basement, and the foundation near the front steps is giving in.

Loretta Mikols, chairman of the selectmen, asked Brown what his gut feeling was on the town's continued use of the building as a town office.

"It's a waste of money," he said. "Every dime spent here is waste."

Nielsen found guilty, gets four life sentences

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christian Nielsen remains a puzzle more than a year after he fatally shot and cut up four people in a bloody killing spree in western Maine.

Nielsen, 32, has talked to lawyers, psychologists, psychiatrists, detectives, family members and others since Labor Day weekend last year when the killings took place. But he hasn't been able to offer a good explanation of what drove him to kill.

"To this day, we have no clear idea of what snapped in his brain," Lee Graham, Nielsen's stepmother, told Justice Robert Crowley on Thursday shortly before Crowley sentenced Nielsen to life in prison.

Nielsen pleaded guilty to four counts of murder last week in the deaths of three women and a man over a four-day period.

Nielsen falls short of the legal definition of insanity, but he suffers from schizoid personality disorder, forensic psychologists testified at his sentencing. People with that disorder often come across as aloof and disconnected and have difficulty expressing their emotions.

On Thursday, Nielsen attempted to open up, if only for a few seconds.

"I just want to say I'm sorry for what I did," Nielsen said to the victims' families, who filled five rows of benches in the courtroom, before he was sentenced.

Nielsen was living at the Black Bear Bed & Breakfast in Newry when he fatally shot James Whitehurst, 50, of Batesville, Ark., in a remote wooded area on Sept. 1, 2006, then dismembered his body and burned the remains the next day. Whitehurst was a handyman who also had been staying at the inn.

Over the next two days, Nielsen also killed the lodge's owner, Julie Bullard, 65; her daughter, Selby Bullard, 30; and her daughter's friend, Cindy Beatson, 43, to cover

USMC Sea Stallions roar over Rebel field

NORTH CAROLINA MARINE HELICOPTERS TRAIN HERE—Six H-53 Sea Stallion Marine helicopters trained in Maine for several days last week. Based in New River, N.C., the craft flew out of Brunswick Naval Air Station while training here. Last Thursday, two flew over the field at Telstar High School during a field hockey game. Area residents reported seeing and hearing them several times a day. The New River Air Station's website displays the slogan: "Pardon our noise, it's the sound of freedom." A spokesman at BNAS said the helicopters came to Maine "for cooler weather and different terrain." They left on Monday—perhaps disappointed in the unseasonably warm temperatures. The helicopters' operations here were not the sort that requires use of a Military Operating Area, such as the Condor MOA, which overlies much of western Maine. As for the Rebels on the ground here, they were scheduled to play North Yarmouth Academy yesterday (Wednesday) at home for the Western Class C Championship. (Photo: A. Aloisio)

State size rules might force SAD44 into more costly consolidation option

By ALISON ALOISIO

A hard line taken by the state on school consolidation could force SAD44 to pursue one of its most expensive merger options, SAD44 directors learned Monday.

School consolidation, under the current law, would cost SAD44 more money no matter who its partners are.

A two-district merger with neighboring SAD43 (Rumford) would be the least expensive (roughly $50,000 more a year, based on this year's budget).

But the state's stand on the minimum number of students required in the new regional unit—2,500—could require SAD44 to join also with SAD21 (Dixfield) and/or Union 37 (Rangeley).

SAD43 and 44 combined would total between 2,400 and 2,500 students, SAD44 said Supt. Dave Murphy.

Including the other school systems in the consolidation plan would be significantly more costly to SAD44—an es-consolidation facilitator from the Department of Education, made a presentation to the SAD44 School Board.

"The commissioner is four-square behind consolidation, and she's four-square behind 2,500 students," Connors said.

In August, SAD44 submitted a letter of intent to the Department of Education indicating it would pursue merger plans with the other units, or any combination thereof.

The intent, district officials said, was to keep all options open.

Modified letters of intent could then be submitted as the planning proceeded, Murphy said.

But Connors said any modi-

A merger plan will be drawn up by a Regional Planning Committee (RPC) made up of the potential partner systems. Residents in each system will vote on it in 2008.

Rejecting the plan would mean a financial penalty from the state, estimated at $300,000.

The meeting was the fourth in a series of informational meetings offered by SAD44 Supt. Dave Murphy on the consolidation issue.

Mahoosuc Report overview

The second of a three-part series published prior to the community meeting set for Wednesday, Nov. 7

Prepared by the staff of The Wilderness Society

Throughout much of the 20th century, most of the 26-million-acre Northern Forest of New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, including the Mahoosuc region, was owned in large part by forest products companies that kept all timbering and manufacturing local. They offered relatively high-paying, stable jobs and allowed people to freely use their lands for recreation. When they sold land, it was usually to another forest products company that continued the tradition of allowing residents free use of large blocks of forestland.

But this arrangement has changed dramatically in recent years, as the owners of vast areas of forestland in the region have sold their holdings to a long list of outside interests. As land in the Mahoosuc region continues to rise in value, this trend of continuing sale, subdivision, and parcelization into

About 50 people joined Gil Seeley of Newry Sunday in celebrating her 100th birthday. The celebration took place at the Bear River Grange Hall. Here, she blows out the candles on her cake. Flyers displayed on the tables listed notable events that took place in 1907, the year she was born. Among them: the Chicago Cubs won the World Series. Seeley's actual birthday was Oct. 24. BUILDING THROUGH THE ARTS

To the Editor:

On the evenings of Oct. 30 and Nov. 1, supporters of the Mahoosuc Arts Council will call on fellow community members to renew their membership and support of the council.

This is our biggest fundraiser of the year and it's a great way to "Make Your Dollars Perform!"

A gift of $25 will allow an entire classroom of students to experience quality arts. How many classrooms will you sponsor?

We encourage you to make a pledge during the Phon-a-thon or mail your gift directly to the Mahoosuc Arts Council, PO Box 534, Bethel 04217. Your support is vital to achieving our mission "to support the advancement of the arts and humanities in the adult communities and school systems of the greater Bethel area."

Free performance — The Mahoosuc Arts Council invites you to learn more about our efforts and to experience an example of the quality programming we bring to the local schools. On Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. at the Crescent Park School cafeteria, we will present a free performance by The Figures of Speech Puppet Theatre entitled "Far East Tales from China and Japan."

To learn more about the Mahoosuc Arts Council and our upcoming events, please visit our website at www.MahoosucArts.org, or call 824.3575.

Together we can "build community through the arts!"

GREAT WAYS TO SUPPORT CPS

To the Editor:

Crescent Park School will again be participating in several programs to earn merchandise or money for the school this year.

We are collecting UPCs (bar codes) from Campbell's soups, Spaghetti-O's, Swanson, Prego, V-8 juices and Pepperidge Farm crackers, breads, cookies, Goldfish crackers and frozen desserts.

Also, we need box tops (the pink coupon) from General Mills "Boxtops for Education" products including cereals, Betty Crocker, Pillsbury, Old El Paso, Yoplait, Ziplock, Huggies, Cottonelle and others. We are saving "Hannaford Helps Schools" certificates and Hood "Sox Tops for Kids" bottle caps.

CPS earns books, computer programs and sports equipment from Campbell's. Money from the box tops, certificates and bottle caps goes into the CPS Student Activity Fund. Last year, CPS earned over $1,090 for the fund.

A complete list of qualifying products is available at the Crescent Park School office (824-2839).

Please put all UPCs, lids, box tops, certificates and "Sox Tops" in the collection box at Crescent Park School or the Bethel Foodliner. You may also send them to: Crescent Park School, 19 Crescent Lane, Bethel, ME 04217.

This is a great way to support the children at CPS (or any local school). We always appreciate the support from our friends in the Bethel area.

TELSTAR AUCTION THANKS

To the Editor:

The Telstar Alumni Association would like to thank all the people who came to help us set up for the Ticket/Chinese Auction, arrange donation items on tables, sell food in the kitchen, sell raffle and 50/50 tickets, deliver the goods, clean up afterward, and to just help out with whatever. Sorry if we forgot anyone.

A special thanks to Ross Timberlake for being our announcer.

This was a great fundraiser for our Memorial Fund, and we are already planning to do another auction in October of 2008.

We will be contacting alumni members in late summer or early fall for auction donations.

INAUGURAL BUSINESS SHOWCASE

To the Editor:

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce is very excited about our upcoming Inaugural Business Showcase at Telstar High School gymnasium on Friday, Nov. 9.

There has seemed to be some confusion about what this day is comprised of, and who the chamber is inviting to participate, so this letter is meant to help to correct any misconceptions about the day. Any business or Bethel area nonprofit is welcomed to have a presence at this event, whether a chamber member or not.

First of all, we are happy to report that we have 34 Bethel area businesses and nonprofits who have already registered and we have space to accommodate a total of 50. If your business or nonprofit is interested, please contact the chamber office or one of the committee members soon. The committee has made the decision to keep the registration at the early bird price of $45 for chamber members and $65 for nonmembers.

The day will start shortly after 12 noon, with the 11th- and 12th-grade students visiting the businesses set up in the gymnasium. We have referred to this time as a "Job Fair," but it is so much more. We are providing an opportunity to have business owners and nonprofit community leaders "connect" with these students. Some businesses will have job applications available throughout the day, but most will simply be promoting what they do and helping the students to understand what is required in the owning (and operating) of a successful small business. The event committee has really enjoyed working with the Telstar Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America on this part of the day's agenda.

After the students vacate the gymnasium, the participating businesses and nonprofits will interact with one another. We, in essence, will be educating each other on all the many services that we can make available to one another right here in the Bethel area. We are also in the process of finalizing some informative presentations that will be held for the participants.

From 5 to 8 p.m., we will be opening the doors to the public and everyone is invited. The businesses present will have information available on their products and services; there will be ongoing door-prize giveaways and many other show-specials. Admission is free and food will be sold to benefit one of the Telstar High School organizations.

We are inviting everyone to please mark your calendars and plan to attend this terrific event. For more information, contact any of the committee members: Colleen Files (824-2131), Mike Steven (824-2588), Lynn Saxton (357-7353), Richard Johnson (824-3046), or Jim Bennett (441-2139) or the offices of the Bethel Area Chamber (824-2282).

fied plan would have to meet the 2,500-student requirement.

And even then, he said, if a modified plan "leaves one district out in the cold, the commissioner could say 'go back to the drawing board and work out something to bring all the communities in.'"

Legislation

When the Maine Legislature convenes in January, members will likely face several bills that propose modification of the school consolidation law.

One focus will be financial—finding a way to tweak the law so consolidation might not cost districts like SAD44 more money.

An RPLC is currently being established to plan the merger. It is expected to hold its first meeting in early November, Murphy said.

Murphy said discussion on legislation is focusing on allowing the committee to alter local cost-sharing methods, in order to minimize a cost increase to some districts.

Bethel director Lynn Arizzi asked Connors if the state would provide funds to hire a consultant to advise SAD44 on negotiating cost-sharing.

"We need help," she said.

But Connors said he knew of no financial aid.

Even if the cost-sharing could be more favorably distributed for SAD44, consolidation would still leave the small towns in the voting minority on a school committee that includes Rumford.

Bethel director Cheri Thurston voiced SAD44's continued concern that its towns could lose control over school decisions.

Connors replied that is why establishing the governance method for the new school unit is "very important."

But, noted Murphy, whatever method is adopted must still be based on a one-person, one-vote formula.

Committee shaping up

SAD44's representation on the regional planning committee is crystallizing, Murphy said.

He expects to have local names by the end of this week.

Each town may have a school director, a municipal official and a citizen on the committee.

School directors Monday approved the board's representatives: from Bethel, Lynn Arizzi; Woodstock, Marcel Polak; Newry, Bonnie Largess; Greenwood, Dick Melville; and Andover, Keith Farrington.

Andover

wood and Newry, and was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) in Bethel.

Murphy has emphasized that any information about the consolidation process can change as it progresses.

At Tuesday's meeting, several Andover residents wondered why there has not been more discussion about the effect of consolidation on the quality of education.

"How does this help the kids?" asked Eileen Pew.

"That has not been a large part of the discussion," acknowledged Murphy. "Across the state, the focus has been on the fiscal piece."

He said the Regional Planning Committee (RPC) that will craft a merger plan for SADs 43, 44, 21 and Union 37 will divide into subcommittees, one of which will study the educational effects.

Others wondered where SAD44 children might end up attending school in a merger scenario.

"I have no answer for that," said Murphy. The question would be decided by a new regional school board, he said.

Andover has long been concerned that its small elementary school might be closed by SAD44, and those fears have not been eased by the prospect of consolidation.

Murphy said that while a majority vote of the SAD44 School Board could close AES, a two-thirds majority of the new regional board would be required.

In both scenarios, the town would have the option of paying the difference in the cost to the district between closing the school and keeping it open.

That would not be the case if the regional board voted to close a high school in the new school unit, Murphy said.

Locked in

Noting that the cost of consolidation appears to roughly the same as the penalty for rejecting it, Janet Farrington asked, "What's the benefit in doing it?"

Murphy said that SAD44 must proceed with the plan under law, and voters will decide the question next year.

Freeman Farrington recalled when Andover joined SAD44 in the 1960s. "After we went in, we felt we wouldn't pay more by being on our own, and we tried to get out," he said.

Murphy said that under the consolidation law, once a town or school system joins a new unit, "it's a marriage without the possibility of divorce."

He said under a merger with the other districts, Andover would hold approximately 4 percent of the voting power.

Local formula will stay
Roger Sabin asked if SAD44 would keep its current local funding formula if residents voted not to consolidate.

"Barring a decision by all five towns, the formula would stay whether we consolidate or not," said Murphy.

The current formula puts a relatively greater share of the tax burden on property-rich Newry.

Janet Farrington asked if the RPC could put out regular notices to the public about its progress.

Murphy said a newsletter is under discussion, and information may also be sent home with students.

ROUTE 2 CONSTRUCTION, NORTH ROAD WORK COORDINATED—Construction on Route 2 in Bethel and Gilead went into a higher gear last week, and there is now alternating one-way traffic near the Pleasant River Bridge (above). The road will be shifted to the left and straightened from a curve (background) near a house that has been struck several times by vehicles. Work on a two-mile stretch in that area will take place between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays throughout the fall and into the winter. According to the Maine Department of Transportation, 15-minute delays are possible. Beginning Wednesday (yesterday), blasting activity will take place from 2 to 4 p.m. on weekdays. Long delays are possible, but MDOT and the town of Bethel are working together to ensure traffic will be able to use the North Road during these times. Work is also now underway on the North Road to install water-main pipes for the Bethel Water District and culverts for the town. Traffic there may be disrupted until Christmas time, Town Manager Scott Cole said. The North Road may be closed on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., he said, but there is no fixed schedule. Blasting may also take place on that project. (Photo: A. Aloisio) the murder of Whitehurst. He used a chain saw, hacksaw and ax to cut the bodies in half, prosecutors said.

Prosecutors asked that Nielsen be given four life sentences, calling it an appropriate punishment given the number of people he killed and the gruesome nature of their deaths. Defense attorneys had asked for a sentence of 45 years.

Crowley handed down four life sentences to be served concurrently after hearing emotional and tearful testimony from about 20 members of the victims' families and relatives of Nielsen. Under Maine law, a defendant receiving a life sentence cannot be released from prison, meaning Nielsen will die behind bars.

"When all is said and done, Christian Nielsen has committed four of the worst criminal acts in recent Maine history," Crowley said.

Brooke Bullard, whose step-mother and sister were killed, read a statement written by Selby Bullard's 10-year-old son, Elliot, who now lives in California. In the statement, which Elliot titled "How my life changed and I was forever wounded," the boy said he couldn't understand the violence that took four lives.

"They have all walked the stairway to heaven," Bullard read. "At least there's no violence up there."

Nielsen's father, Charles Nielsen, apologized for the pain his son caused. He also asked the judge for compassion before he turned to his son and said: "I love you."

Christian Nielsen's mental health had been a focus of his defense, and he initially pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

Dr. Charles Robinson, a forensic psychologist, said Nielsen's motivation for the killings remains a mystery, and the man himself is a puzzle even after talking with him nearly 20 times.

"I feel like I do not understand what has happened to him," Robinson said.

Rumford board against Med-Care plan

RUMFORD—Rumford selectmen last week voiced their opposition, at least for now, to a proposed $2 million facility for Med-Care Ambulance in Mexico. The board sent a letter to Med-Care acknowledging the project, as required by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which would provide a loan for the new building. The selectmen expressed concern the project would not be voted upon at a Town Meeting. Some also said it would be better to build a public safety building that could also house fire and police departments. The Med-Care board has said its charter gives it the authority to approve spending on such projects. Eleven towns are served by Med-Care. At recent public meetings citizens and officials have acknowledged the need for a new ambulance facility, but voiced concern about the length of the USDA loan (30 to 40 years) and the lack of a public vote on it.

Halloween Walk this weekend

ANDOVER—A Halloween Walk will take place in Andover Saturday, Oct. 27, with proceeds from the $3 entry fee benefiting the Andover Fifth Grade field trip at the end of the school year. Hayrides will begin at dusk in the parking lot of Martin's Services & Sales Garage on South Main Street. Haunted woods will feature witches, ghosts and goblins. Parking is available at the tennis courts across the street.

Limits proposed on boat horsepower

AUGUSTA—An incident in which a large boat sliced through a smaller boat — killing two people this summer on Long Lake — has prompted a legislator to propose limits on motors allowed on that lake. Rep. Richard Sykes, R-Harrison, wants to submit a bill limiting boat motors to 500 horsepower or less on Long Lake, where the accident happened Aug. 11. Sykes also proposes better enforcement of boating laws, including hiring a summer warden on the lake during high-traffic periods, and requiring boaters to take tests before they can operate on Maine waters. Other lawmakers want to submit similar bills during the 2008 session, which begins in January. Legislative leaders must vote to allow the bills to be introduced if they are to be considered. Two people were killed when 34-foot, high-performance boat with twin, 435-horsepower engines slammed into a smaller, 14-foot boat in Harrison on Aug. 11. Robert LaPointe Jr. of Medway, Mass., has been indicted on charges of manslaughter and operating under the influence in connection with the collision, which took the lives of Terry Raye Trott, 55, of Naples, and Suzanne Groetzinger, 44, of Berwick. LaPointe, 38, and his passenger, 19-year-old Nicole Randall of Bridgton, were thrown into the water while their boat raced ashore. LaPointe posted bail earlier this month and was released from jail. Under present state law, the high-powered boat that was involved in the Long Lake accident "could have been operated by a 12-year-old kid," said Sykes, who wants to set a minimum age of 16 for the operation of certain boats. State law currently allows a 12-year-old to operate a boat of more than 10 horsepower if someone at least 16 is supervising. The state Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, which enforces boating laws on the state's lakes, is not taking a position on the bills until the final language is drafted.

Deer season begins Saturday

BANGOR—The regular firearm season for deer is nearing, with opening day for residents on Saturday, Oct. 27, and Monday, Oct. 29 for nonresidents. The season will continue through Saturday, Nov. 24. Department biologists believe that if normal hunting conditions and hunter effort take place statewide, the deer harvest in Maine should be in the vicinity of 29,580 deer. This would be higher than the 20-year average harvest since the any-deer permit regulations were put into effect (28,704) and would be similar to the 2006 harvest of 29,918. The department manages the state's deer population through the Any Deer permit system, which allows a hunter to kill an antlerless deer. To reach deer population management objectives in 2007, the department has set doe harvest quotas ranging from zero to 1,295 among our 29 WMDs. This year's projected doe kill of 8,488 statewide, is 3.5% below the doe harvest achieved in 2006. This reduced doe quota from 2006 reflects cold February temperatures and deep late season snows that increased winter mortality in many northern and central Wildlife Management Districts. A total of 66,275 any-deer permits were issued statewide ranging from 75 permits in WMD 10 in central Penobscot county to 11,000 in WMD 17 (central Maine). WMDs 1-5, 19, 27 and 28 will not have any permits allocated. The allocation of 66,275 any-deer permits, along with the archery and youth seasons, should result in the statewide harvest of roughly 8,688 does and an additional 4,952 fawns in 2007. Antlered buck harvests should approximate 15,940 slightly lower than the buck kill of 16,149 in 2006. Currently, The archery season for deer is ongoing, having started on September 27.

Division of ambulance coverage—An article in last week's Citizen on ambulance service in Newry should have said that PACE provides coverage for all injuries that are routed through Sunday River ski patrol, skiing-related or otherwise, while Med-Care provides coverage for Newry, including the Sunday River resort area, for all injuries that are not routed through the ski patrol.

Greenwood

The building was sold to the town in 1985, by SAD44, which had no further use for it. "They gave it to the town for a dollar for a reason," Brown said.

"Because it's a money pit," Mikols replied.

Other buildings

Just up the road from the town office, the town hall roof is "in dire straits," Brown said, and the basement, "is like quicksand."

He suggested the building, built by the CCC in 1931, be donated to the Greenwood Historical Society.

The main fire station, also in Locke Mills village, has a 30-year-old heating system and a roof that is more than 30 years old, Brown noted.

And the building is not handicap accessible, he said, but would have to be brought into ADA compliance if any major renovations were undertaken.

Eight miles down the Greenwood Road, in Greenwood City, is the Fire Department substation, a single-bay garage of indeterminate age.

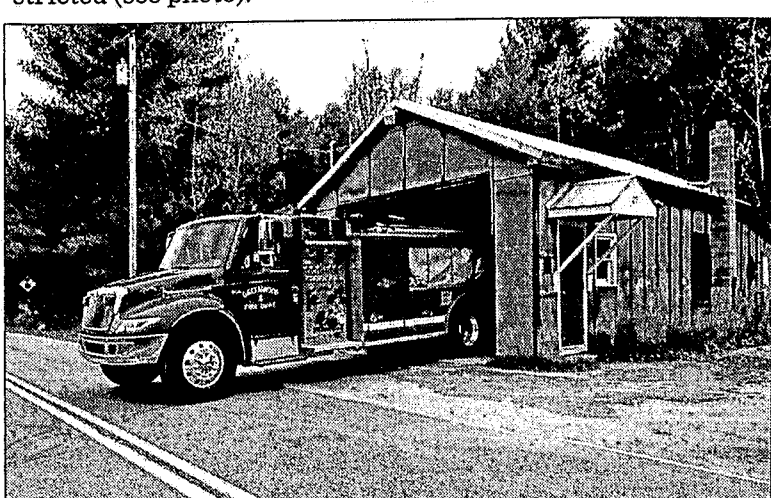

Summing up the committee's overall assessment of that building, Brown said: "The best thing down there is the front door."

The roof and tarpaper siding need to be replaced, he said, and the building's single-pane windows are extremely energy inefficient. "There's got to be thousands of dollars going out there every winter," Brown said.

He suggested at least putting plywood over the windows to reduce the heat loss.

Space is also severely constricted (see photo).

TIGHT SQUEEZE—GFD's newest vehicle, a 2002 International pumper, barely fits in its Greenwood City station. (Photo: Daniels)

Back up the Greenwood Road, about half-way between the two fire stations, is the Highway Department garage, which was built in 1983 and has its own problems.

"Alan (road foreman Alan Seames) is very ingenious," Brown said, "very ingenious, but he can't fix his roof. It leaks like a sieve, and one of these days the sheetrock ceiling is coming down."

The two-bay garage is also too small for the department's needs, forcing it to store some vehicles outdoors.

And there is no potable water available at the garage.

On a brighter note, the nearby sand shed, built in 2003 is "in beautiful shape," Brown said.

Harrington agreed. "It's the best building the town owns," he said.

Charged decisions ahead

Mikols described the infrastructure survey as a first step toward developing a comprehensive and coherent plan for financial management of the town's physical assets.

"The town does not currently have a short- or long-term (five- or ten-year) capital plan or a depreciation schedule," she said.

"Without a maintenance and replacement schedule, and a plan for growth, what should be expected-and-routine activities and investments end up deteriorating to the point of becoming emergency needs."

"Taxpayers and the health, welfare and stability of the town's infrastructure will benefit greatly from having a plan and putting money aside annually to invest in upkeep."

Future reports from the Capital Improvement Committee will look at other components of that infrastructure, including equipment, roads and bridges.

All will likely require town voters to eventually face up to some difficult decisions.

One example: What to do about Johnny's Bridge, which is seriously deteriorated?

Like the former schoolhouse that now functions as a town office, the bridge is a focus of strong feelings.

"Johnny's bridge defines so many different things," Harrington said. "You've got several different factions that have great ideas about what they would like to do with Johnny's Bridge."

"I've had one person tell me, 'If you're going to get rid of that bridge, I'll buy the dynamite.'"

"But others say, 'If you touch that bridge, you're starting World War III.'"

Bethel

Mayville and Around Town

By Donald G. Bennett

At the selectmen's meeting last Monday, Oct. 15, over 45 minutes was spent deliberating on 20 points pertaining to the Bethel Water District obtaining a road opening permit from the town. The water district plans to lay nearly two miles of 12-inch pipe from the Daisy Bryant Road to their anticipated new "field of wells" located off the North Road just short of Frank Gibson's orchard and in property that contains a large gravel pit. Payment is expected from FEMA as far as the new water line is concerned, but how much would be available to pay for the town's replacement of culverts in the path of the water line was the key issue. On the town's side this year's budget does not cover culvert replacement work.

Jack Cross stepped down from his selectman's seat during the discussion since his company will do the excavation work.

John Head and "Joe" Drummond represented the water district trustees, but both sides seemed handicapped by the lack of written commitments from funding agencies. Issuance of a permit was put off until later in the week and until more facts were available.

Shipments of pipe for the water line were in transit at the time of the meeting. Since the Monday meeting the pipe has arrived; it is stored at the Angevine Park parking lot.

During the week, The Town of Bethel Public Works has laid new culvert in three places along the North Road ahead of the water district's water main installation. Public Works has the work area marked with standard warning signs.

At the selectmen's meeting, there was considerable more discussion on the charter terms for the ad hoc Mason Street Sidewalk Committee, which was appointed at the previous meeting. None of the committee members attended the meeting. Two selectmen favored a narrow scope for the committee's focus. Chief question was did this committee have the authority to come up with a suggested plan for community enhancement (something for all) along Mason Street or just the safety of school children in the Mason Street corridor. The committee's charter terms were "approved as amended."

Being an observer and listening to the board's discussion, I am still in the dark as to what the committee will be charged to do. It seemed to me that the committee's license to dream will be at least held in check (amended) but ultimately the town will be voting to raise more money if street and sidewalk modifications are made. So, in this case, along with everyone else, wait and see.

Francis Dumont was approved as a new voting member of the Planning Board, but the resulting vacancy on the Appeals Board was not filled.

Selectman Dennis Doyon was voted to be the town's municipal representative on the School Consolidation Regional Committee.

The selectmen appointed an ad hoc committee to prepare a plan for the improvement of the skateboard park, which is adjacent to Davis Park. Committee members appointed were: Dave Bean, Janet Bartlett and Nancy Babcock.

Heating oil prices have gone up again. At Brooks Bros. oil costs $2.749 per gallon if paid for in cash when delivered. During the week gasoline in Mayville went up to $2.939. To keep track of heating oil prices at Brooks Bros. you can find current prices online at www.thebetheljournal.com, and click the Heating Oil Prices button.

Report

smaller and smaller pieces is expected to continue.

As a striking example of this trend, by 2006 three of the four largest private landowners in the region had sold their forestland holdings. The new owners are mostly Timber Investment Management Organizations, or TIMOs. Since 1980, the report finds that more than 91 percent of the 26-million acres of the Northern Forest has been sold, and most of that—more than 20-million acres—was in Maine.

The sales of holdings in the Mahoosuc region have led to more aggressive cutting, followed by further sale of the land to developers. The report authors speculate that developers will only increase intensive cutting practices, residential development and road building, and hasten the loss of public access for recreation.

One positive to this trend noted in the report is the increased opportunities available to save some of the most important lands in the region from development. Those lands with high ecological, recreational, and scenic value can often now be preserved through outright purchase or through conservation easements when they come on the market.

Future land use

Future land-use planning

has become a hot topic in the region with most of the organized towns and the city of Berlin having adopted comprehensive, or master, plans designed to guide development and conserve special areas.

According to the report, a strong consensus has emerged among Mahoosuc region municipalities to protect natural resources—lakes, rivers, streams, forests, and wildlife—for future generations; to protect the "working landscape" and the ability of people to make a living on the land; to maintain the scenic quality of the landscape; and to preserve residents' access to the land for recreation.

Recreation and tourism in the Mahoosuc region

Though residents and visitors to the Mahoosuc region enjoy a wealth of recreational and tourism activities for every season, many of these activities rely on private landowners who have traditionally allowed generous public access to their lands. Changing land ownership, and the new financial interests that come with the new landowners, has dramatically altered the long-range prospects for continued public access to these private lands. The report is careful to note that how this question plays out could have tremendous impacts on recreation and tourism in the region.

In quilting news from Barabara Honkala: The Cross-Country Quilters of Bethel recently hosted about twelve of the Area Three clubs of the Maine Pine Tree Quilt Guild at their meeting place in the Methodist Church. Some 60 or more lady quilters gathered at 11 a.m. for a short business meeting followed by the eagerly awaited "show and tell" where members get to show their latest quilt creations for all to ooh and aah over. At noon the host club served a delicious luncheon of salads, quiche, and finger rolls, with a variety of desserts and beverages. The tables were colorful with scattered fall leaves, gourds and pumpkins, intertwined with ribbon. The program continued in the afternoon with Donna Gillis of West Bethel sharing the stories behind the quilts she calls "Textures of Life," which she makes for friends and people who have lost loved ones. Donna has a unique approach. By using items of clothing of the loved one selected by the family, she captures with the fabrics, the essence of that person. The end result is a delightful quilt the family will treasure forever. The audience was captivated by the whole presentation.

The afternoon ended with games and prizes, and the drawing for the quilt blocks brought by each lady. Pat McCartney of Cross-Country Quilters Club was the lucky winner of the blocks. Logging at Riverside Cemetery is close to finishing up. Today and at the end of last week, brush, limbs and unmarketable trees were being swept up and run through a chipper before being hauled to NewPage in Rumford. Myers Logging uses a Woodsman 334 chipping machine that controls the flow of material into the chipper by computer. When a load is dumped onto the input conveyor, the control system automatically pauses if too much wood is being moved forward. Chadbourne Tree Farms was hauling the chips.

West Bethel

The reds on the hillsides are fading to brown, and the tamaracks have turned to gold. In fact, gold is now the predominant color, with only a patch of bright red here and there. In spite of summer temperatures early in the week, fall marches on.

The number of red squirrels Mike has relocated has now reached 25 — and counting. Where they all come from is beyond me, but we are tired of their eating all the birdseed and chewing on our doorways. The next step will be squirrel stew.

After Friday night's wild and woolly rainstorm, we had a beautiful weekend. I spent mine with some of my spinner friends at a camp (belonging to fellow spinner Anne Gass) on Panther Pond in Raymond. Until the late-day chill set in on Saturday, we sat outdoors spinning and knitting in the warm sunshine, surrounded by tall pines and watery vistas. Great food, fun, and fellowship followed that evening and the next morning, with all agreeing that we must do this again soon.

I left the group right after breakfast Sunday, because there was a very important family event to attend in Chesterville. Elisabeth Stanicoff, our first grandchild, turned 18 on Sunday, and there was a big surprise party for the occasion. Her friends and family, both peers and adults, celebrated her entry into adulthood with songs, poems, musical performance, and fond memories while Elisabeth occupied the seat of honor in the audience. She is usually one of the performers, but this time she was the chief spectator. It was a wonderfully happy affair for all.

A group of about 19 from that church attended a Gaither musical performance in Portland Friday night. They were picked up by a bus, which originated in the Mexico/Dixfield region, and proceeded to the Maine Mall where they had an early dinner at the Country Buffet. The concert started at 7, with an intermission finally occurring at about 10, and the finale at around 11. The audience loved every minute.

Upon exiting, concert-goers found themselves in horizontal rain, with their bus not in sight. Everyone became thoroughly soaked before they finally connected with bus and driver and got underway shortly after midnight for the trip back to the Health Center parking lot in Bethel. Good humor carried the damp passengers nicely through any discomfort, and all agreed they are looking forward to a repeat performance.

The unseasonal warm weather, while delightful, is somewhat worrying, because of global warming issues looming in the background. I hope this doesn't bode another lackluster winter for snow sports. There is too much at stake for the local economy.

Talk to you next time! Have a good week.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

The weather is just unbelievable for this time of year. According to the weather reports, the temperature is supposed to be in the low 60s for part of this week. No complaints from here!

Stephen J. McLain, III, who is in the US Army, was recently promoted from the rank of Captain to Major. He is the son of Steve and Lise McLain of Gilead. Shortly after his commission came through, he was deployed to Iraq.

Bob and Gladys Taylor became grandparents again recently. This will be grandchild number six for them. Peter and Linda Bernaby had a baby girl, Lily Sha, at Stephens Memorial Hospital on Oct. 16. Lily weighed 8 pounds and 13 ounces and joins sisters, Taylor and Alexa. Lily is also the 11th great-grandchild of Raymond Chapman of Gilead.

Planning Board

The regular November meeting of the Gilead Planning Board will be held on Nov. 1 in the Town Hall and will start at 7 p.m.

Gilead Historical Society

Hugh and I decided that we should take advantage of this great weather and take some more pictures of the road construction on Route 2. A short while ago we recorded what the area looked like before the construction began, and today we stopped at the site where the blasting of the ledges will be done soon. We feel that this is an important event to keep track of for the future.

We also took a walk to look at the railroad protection wall. This is a stonewall that was built to reinforce the steep bank between the railroad and the old road which ran along closer to the Androscoggin River than the present Route 2 does. It was quite interesting to see and is another point of interest that should be recorded by the GHS.

A little bit of history from the town records: "To Parmenio Peabody, one of the surveyors of highways in the Town of Gilead. We the subscribers, Selectmen of said town, do hereby assign to you to make and repair the highway within the following limits: Commencing at William Peabody's barn and ending at a maple stump near the protection wall so called. Given under our hands at Gilead this 28 day of April 1876."

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

"Everything is beautiful in its own way."

The Red Sox won the pennant and go to the World Series. The Patriots walked all over Miami and the weather has been so unexpectedly beautiful for mid October in Upton with dazzling sunsets prevailing over the lake. We should have a blizzard any day now to bring us back to reality. Foliage season is over in the North Country but still the Leaf Peepers were plentiful over the weekend.

Ginny Williamson isn't the only one to have free partridge for dinner. An unfortunate but delicious bird flew into the window Sunday. (Sayonara birdie). I felt bad at first, it was such a beautiful bird. He didn't look so pretty after being plucked, so my conscience was abated rapidly. Ginny has a resident turkey visiting at her birdfeeder and is in no danger becoming a meal at this time.

Carolyn Hill Taylor entertained her Tap Dancing Ladies at her cottage over the weekend. They tapped their way to the Bull Moose for a hearty meal. The same ladies visited New York City a few years ago and did a lively tap in front of Carnegie Hall. These dancers will never see fifty again but they are as lively as 39-year-olds.

The Georgie Pratt house next door is undergoing a radical renovation. A byproduct of the old building is half a ton of guano.

They are still kayaking on the lake, taking advantage of the lovely weather. Global warming has its perks.

Evelyn and Jim Kenney entertained children and grandchildren last week.

The Cards and Pool group met at Larry and Sue Nelson's Saturday night and had a great time and many laughs. Larry and Sue are "The Hosts with the most."

A Flu Clinic will be held in Errol on Oct. 25 from 2 till 5 p.m.

This morning a wide array of birds showed up under the feeder. A male cardinal gave a lot of color to the group. This was his first appearance this year. Wouldn't you know "Errol the Feral Cat" showed up at the same time. All the birds flew away. Harsh words were used on the cat that took off to greener pastures.

Joy Yarnel had over a dozen turkeys visit her dooryard, but the "Bird of the Week" is the male cardinal who brightened up an already bright day.

News Flash! Ginny and Diane Williamson saw a hummingbird in their oak tree on the 21st of October. If the little guy leaves now he might make it south before the weather turns. This has to be the latest a hummer has been seen in Upton. Bon Voyage to our favorite summer friend. We hope to see him again in May of '08.

Newry

by Sylvia Harrington

This past Sunday, the 21st, a celebration for Gilberte Seeley's approaching 100th birthday on Wednesday, the 24th, was attended by many friends and relatives. "Tootsie" and Barbara Toti and their son Carl from Barrillville, R.I., and Ellie and Armand Minutelli from North Hampton, N.H., were the relatives.

The friends were many, and in all over 50 people made up the celebrants. The Bear River Grange was decorated with balloons, streamers, and each table had several write-ups as to what happened during the year 1907. The food people brought was delicious and varied; not many containers went home with contents in them.

Gilberte looked lovely and seemed pleased we were all there to help her celebrate this wonderful occasion. Brent Bachelder made her a very special cane with writing warning people to beware. With the cane came a flashcard to put around her neck when she is going to and fro. He even adjusted it to her height at the party.

Steve Wight blessed the food and dedicated the gathering to Gilberte. Tim Carter read a proclamation from the governor's office, which he left for Gilberte. Sylvia Gray's granddaughter, Bryanna Gray, played two renditions on the violin. Jesu Joy of Main's Desire by Bach and Largo from Winter by Vivaldo.

Newry's youngest, Benjamin Corriveau, was also at the Grange. He is the son of Freeman and Seneca and was born this past June.

I don't know all the names of those who arranged the party, but they all did a wonderful job. Anita Clark and Reta Powers were both very busy girls on Sunday.

Mid-afternoon on Saturday, Darlene and Loring stopped by for a short visit. We always have a lot to talk about.

Just before I arrived home on Saturday, Mela and David Scott from St. Albans, Vt., had left a note. They had been over to visit her sister, Collette. It was their sister Jackie and husband Arthur Gauthier who ran the Bear River Cabins for many years.

Visiting Karlene Bachelder over the weekend were her son, Brent, and his roommate, Peter Haraty, from Providence, R.I. Her sister, Wilma, from Unity was here and will be staying a while. All of them attended the party for Gil.

Don Gray told me there has been a fox very close to his home. All of us who live close to the Grays should keep our pet cats in and away from the danger, especially in the evening.

Last week a male cardinal landed on the deck. He did not stay long and is the only one I have seen this fall.

The Bethel, Hanover and Newry Recycling Center is still collecting woolen hats, mittens and scarves to give to youngsters before cold weather sets in. If you don't see the box, please ask an attendant where it is.

Don't forget to register your dog(s) at the Town Office give them a call for more information at 824-3123.

Alder River Grange held its regular meeting on Oct. 19 with seven members present. It was voted to hold a three-point meeting with West Paris Grange and Waterford Grange next year.

The last supper for the Grange season will be held on Nov. 10. This is the Turkey Supper and veterans will have a free supper.

King and Dee Craft of Cape Cod, Mass., visited Jack and Lucy Nordahl the first week of October. They went to Fryeburg Fair and other points of interest.

Last week the Nordahls took in the garden and got it ready for the winter.

The leaves have been very colorful this past week and lovely to look at. The Lewiston paper of Oct. 21 had an article on why the color was so late this year — warm temps.

If you have any news, give me a ring at 824-3350. God Bless the Troops.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Get well wishes to Minnie Akers, who has been a patient at Stephens Hospital in Norway.

Speedy recovery to Richard Hall, who had knee surgery recently.

The Transfer Station Committee would like to give a big thanks to Ethan Allen and Eric driving the lift, Jimmy Swan, John Percival, and the Highway Department for helping to move the current shack and generator making way for the recycling compactor. Many people have asked about dropping off shingles — not yet! As soon as construction is finished and Punch Passes go out, we will be ready to take them in. This should be before the snow flies. Also, a reminder — please be sure to listen to attendants — metal goes in the metal pile, organic waste in compost area, wood in wood, etc. This saves our tax dollars!

There will be a flu clinic on Thursday, Nov. 1, at the Andover Town Hall from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Please bring your insurance card. If your insurance carrier doesn't cover the flu vaccine there will be a $25 charge.

The annual Craft Fair at the Fire Department will be held this year on Dec. 8. For more information or to reserve a table, call 392-1140.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Anna and Mark Thurston on the loss of her sister, Susan LeCours.

Happy birthday this week to Deagan Conrad on Sunday, the 28th; Patrick on the 30th; and Rocky Chaisson on the 31st.

Don't forget the Haunted Walk on Saturday, starting at dusk (6:30). Be ready to scream, and be screamed at! Proceeds this year benefit Andover's fifth-grade class, for their end-of-the-year field trip. Happy Halloween!

Greenwood City

by Wayne Hakala

I'm about to have a big one here trying to watch the Sox. So will put down a few thoughts and see how many mistakes I can make. And to think that we have the series coming up, don't know as we are going to stand it all. But it is so much fun!

We had the Fireman's Association supper on Saturday night. I was pleased to see so many fresh young faces in the mix to help out. And it was enjoyable getting everything ready and in place. We did have a good time doing it. Plus Bro. Joe Lyons stopped by to shoot a line of bull with me. Always a good time!

But I was rather disappointed with the turnout. There weren't near the number of townspeople there to support these wonderful firemen. But those that did show up, did have a good time catching up. It's always a good time talking with friends and neighbors. Then there were Mr. and Mrs. Owens, the chief's parents. We certainly enjoyed talking with both of them. Mrs. Owens was able to meet with some of the faces that went along with names and was particularly pleased to meet Master Hal Harren. Seems that Chief Owens gets a fresh dozen eggs from Master Hal for his mother each week. Mrs. Owens informed Master Hal that she wants two dozen each week when the new house is ready in Norway. And Mr. Owens was just a beaming big smile. Bet he will be having his share of them farm fresh eggs.

Plus that lower New Hampshire boy showed up with his Maine squeeze. We had a very nice time visiting. Terry emailed today and said it took him back to an earlier time. I'm sure from some of the stories that were being told, that we were all about 10 to 12 back then and maybe a bit younger. Seems that Mike Needham used to confiscate a few Camels from his grandfather and all the kids, including Anita would meet at a certain location, not to be disclosed due to secrecy, and then smoke them coffin nails. Then that Maine squeeze, Norma, had a few other tales to add. With the Willburs there to add to the merriment, we certainly had a good time.

Moving forward to this coming weekend, we are once again involved with another supper on Saturday eve, the 27th. This is sponsored by the Masonic Lodge and Tri-Town Rescue Auxiliary. This is a Chowder and Soup event sure to please many a taste bud. And I have heard how come you're having it on the first day of hunting? Just one of them things that happens, I guess. But I'm thinking that a few hunters and scouts will be able to enjoy some of the finest in eating around these parts. So be sure to come out for this supper that at $7 a head is very reasonable. And as always the little ones fewer than 12 years are $3. The fixings will be served from 5 till 6:30 p.m.

I'm getting whiplash from trying to see the game and type. One solution is to quit and smile. See you next time!

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

Gardner Roberts Memorial Library President Donna Worcester reports that there will be a library work session to clean and move books next Saturday, Oct. 27, and Sunday, Oct. 28. The books are located at the Hanover Fire House, next to the Town House.

Hunting season is upon us, and to get things started be sure to attend a Hunters' Breakfast put on by the Rumford Grange at the Rumford Center Grange Hall. Starting at 5 a.m., breakfast will be served on Saturday, Oct. 27; Monday, Oct. 29; and Tuesday, Oct. 30. The cost will be $8 each and after 7 a.m. senior citizens pay $6.

The Rumford Grange will host a Halloween party on Oct. 31, between 5 and 6:30 p.m. It will be a good time for all the little monsters, ghosts and goblins that will be out that night.

Looking forward to Sunday, Nov. 4, the Rumford Grange will put on a turkey dinner with all the fixings between noon and 1:30 p.m. We will try to remind everyone again next week.

D.A. Wilson and Company has started the construction project on the Howard Pond Road. Culverts will be replaced or relocated, ditches defined and the travel lane will be expanded to 20 feet. The area affected is from the Country Hair Shed up hill to Robin Smith's driveway.

A stomach upset is going around kids. Among those having it were Kory Crockett and Kaylynn Worcester. The good thing is that it didn't seem to last very long.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Oct. 15, for a regular meeting, with 12 members and one guest present. Several sick members were reported on. The Woodstock Extension met on Wednesday for a meeting on Bees, Birds and Butterflies, information about how to attract them to your home, different plants, etc. Next month the meeting will be about Energy Crunch.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet Nov. 1 for a meeting, dinner and program by Wendy Newmeyer from Balsam Fir products. The meeting starts at 11:30 a.m. at the Grange Hall, dinner at noon by Woodstock High School Alumni, and then the program. Wood will be drawn at this time.

wildlife, the pipeline, glaciers and the Arctic Circle. Four visitors attended: the Rev. Richard Beal, Joan and Richard Ford and Edwin Howe. This encouraged the regular members. Mystery package went to President Elaine Roberts. The Board of Trustees chose Paul Billings as chairman and Olive Risko as vice chairman. Next meeting will be at the Town Complex when Paul and Vicki Billings will speak on "The Freedom Trail." Olive Risko gave the research report on Kindergarten in the U.S. town where it was first established.

The Museum has a few sculptures in its art collection. The art collection, by the way, is one of the few belonging to a Historical Society around. When the Rev. Beal visited he was instantly drawn to the furniture from the South Woodstock Church. Larry has often noted that they have a chapel in the museum. Ronald and Joan Willard gave a donation to the society. Much thanks.

Curator Larry Billings went to the West Paris Universalist Church for the Rev. Beal's sermon on "Autumn."

Larry notes Sandy Dennis of Books N Things has an adorable little dog called "Zi Zi." She has already learned to show appreciation when given a treat. Larry also takes treats to Jackie Gunther's dog "Spike" at "The Shop."

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb
Summer returned again for a few days last week. We all enjoyed that. Leaves are falling everywhere.

On Sunday, Oct. 28, the Rev. Richard Beal, minister of the West Paris Universalist Church, will speak on "Celebrate Samhain." He will look to the origins of Halloween as one way to understand earth-centered spirituality. The service is at 9 a.m. followed by a coffee hour. Do join with us.

Plans for the 101 West Paris Universalist Church annual Chicken Pie Supper to be held on Nov. 15, the Thursday before Thanksgiving, are being made. Beverly Stevens is chairperson. It takes many helpers to prepare and serve the many people that attend.

There were several sales on Saturday. I attended three of them. Beryl Bonney and I had our lunch of a red hot dog in a roll and coffee at the Grange sale. Many West Paris people were out on that summery day.

Granddaughter Amber Lamb left for a few days to go north to teach ecology at Crawford Notch, N.H. She returned on Sunday and attended church and had lunch with me before leaving for Conan for a few weeks' more teaching. She enjoys being independent and traveling and teaching ecology. Muffin greeted her as an old friend, so maybe she will get over running whenever anyone comes into the house.

Albany

by Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. The colors these past few weeks have been just wonderful — the brilliant reds, yellows and oranges. But, the wind we got this weekend took out most of the leaves. Oh, the mountain range is still gorgeous as it has retained some color, but, the roadways aren't quite so lovely. Ah, well, that's probably why they call it "Fall."

Everyone is getting their winter wood in and winterizing their places, getting ready to face the onslaught that is winter in Maine. Of course, with the temperatures getting upwards in the 80s, it certainly didn't feel like we needed to get ready for winter. What we need now is rain (our well has been dry for a while). It seems the lack of water has been hitting much of the country as well (heard the news about Georgia's water supply?). So, mind you, I'm not complaining, just praying and hoping.

Halloween is next Wednesday. Everyone keep in mind that the kids will be out and about, so, we'll all need to pay especially close attention when we're out driving.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Here we are at the end of October — fright season, as we have already been to our first Halloween Party — and the temperature is hovering around 70. I am not complaining mind you, just stating the reality of October in 2007. Still, as we drove the back roads, we could not help but be enchanted by the carpet of color that flashed before our eyes. Reds, yellows, oranges and yes still some green leaves shone before us as we passed through the Oxford Hills heading to West Paris.

We headed to Route 26 where Jody and Zolt have a mining operation, Western Maine Mineral Adventures, that allows people to dig and go through buckets of minerals dirt in hopes that they will find something fantastic. This is like a candy store for David. We brought home a carload and are even now sifting and going through the rock and minerals and the books of mica. I love to see the tourmaline and beryl embedded in the mica. After being washed, the minerals shine in the sunlight. It is fun to look at. Stop in it's a lot of fun — right by the Mollycokett Motel. FMI: 743-6286.

Sunday, as I mentioned, we went to a Halloween Party with all the Hart and Gravier families. Most of the grandkids were there and all had a great time. Most of the little girls seemed to be angels. Carter was a dragon.

School consolidation seems to be on everyone's mind. No one agrees on how it should work. It is a great idea, but I don't see it working for all kinds of practical reasons, like distance and bus routes and teacher salaries, etc. Hope they figure it all out.

Friday and Saturday is the Oxford Hills Business Showcase. It is at OHCHS from Friday afternoon to Saturday around 5 p.m. Sounds like fun. There are booths and business networking as well as Business After Hours. FMI: 743-2281.

This weekend is also the Bethel Outing Club at Gould Academy. It runs from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. Great place to get new equipment. FMI: www.bethelouting.org.

Thursday, the 25th, Mountain Poets will meet at the Fare Share Commons at 7 p.m. Come one come all and enjoy a night of poetry.

Have a great week and hope you are enjoying this great weather.

Mason

by Richard Grover

About mid morning of Oct. 8, we headed east through San Bernardino and the desert mountain pass near Palm Springs en route to Joshua Tree National Park. We passed another large number of power-generating windmills, their giant fans spinning in the stiff breeze. We noticed that there seemed to be one or two stationary fans in many of the rows, leaving us wondering if there is a problem keeping them on line. I wonder what their reliability is.

Entering the park about noon, we marveled at the stark bleakness of the desert, broken only by a few creosote bushes, clumps of dead, brown grass and a few lonely Joshua trees standing vigil in the rocky sand. Joshua trees are a kind of yucca plant standing up to 15 or 20 feet high, their stalks are made up of upward pointed dead leaves surrounding a hard woody center; their tops consist of a central stalk and two or more outer stalks jutting outwardly and bent upward about midway, creating a profile akin to a man standing with his arms outstretched with hands in supplication to God; thus the reference to the profit Joshua. The top foot or two of each branch is a clump of green yucca leaves, sometimes topped by a cluster of waxy white flowers, a welcome contrast to the barrenness all around. Barren mountain peaks jut skyward along the horizons.

The other most notable features in Joshua trees are scattered piles of huge, rounded granite boulders in varied interesting formations just made for climbing and exploring. Several park campgrounds are found near some of the rock piles, and they make wonderful playgrounds for kids to explore and test their climbing skills. A few older kids like me still like to explore these rock piles.

Exiting the park at 29 Palms, we passed the USMC base and took secondary roads across the desert to Needles, Calif., and Laughlin, Nev. Entering Needles, we stopped at the first gas station to replenish a tank on fumes; gas was $3.55 per gallon! I stopped at $20 worth, and within a couple miles we found gas at $2.67/gallon where we filled the tank. At Laughlin, Mona won just over $11 in a penny slot, and I lost $13 at blackjack. Last of the big-time gamblers!

From Laughlin, we headed east again on I-40 across Arizona and New Mexico, enjoying the transition from desert to ponderosa pine forest and back to desert along the way. Northern Arizona and western New Mexico sprout high and sometimes colorful mountains north of I-40, with lots of desert to the east and south. We made a brief stop at the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest National Park so Mona could get her "National Park Passbook" stamped. Otherwise, it was occasional rest areas and gas stations and drive.

As I was exercising Snuffy at one rest area, I noticed that Snuffy seemed to be tip-toeing along and sometimes limping. When I looked at the bottoms of his feet, I found several viscous little weed seeds with tiny needles sticking through the pads of his feet. No wonder he was limping! The source was a noxious little weed that crawls on the ground and sprouts little multi-faceted seeds about 1/8-inch in diameter, each side boasting a "needle." I continued finding these dastardly weeds across west Texas and into Oklahoma.

In Oklahoma I-40 crosses Lake Eufaula, a large lake with fingers that stretch several miles on both sides of the highway. Here, we saw signs to a road called, "Lotta Watah Road!" We also passed Muskogee, Okla., made famous by the song of the same name.

We veered into the northwest corner of Arkansas to pay a short visit to friends before heading across southern Missouri to Van Buren, where my youngest daughter, Anita, resides with husband, Dan, and 18-month-old daughter, Sierra. We enjoyed our stay here, resting and getting acquainted with Sierra, who is a bit hesitant about meeting new people. Here I also learned a new word in one of Sierra's books as I was reading to her. I never realized that Amarillo is the Spanish word for "yellow." I guess that's where that town in the Texas panhandle got its name!

We all (except Mona and Sierra) enjoyed several hours kayaking on the Current River in Van Buren, at this time of year a meandering stream with clear water and several vertical cliffs along the shore. In walking Snuffy in the woods near their home, I saw many oak, hickory and black walnut trees, but never a nut on the ground. Dan told me that they had a very early and warm spring and then a hard frost just as the trees leaved out and were blooming; this killed all the nuts that would have otherwise grown this year.

Dan and Anita have several small raised beds where they grow vegetables. They are just now enjoying fresh fall crop string beans, and their fall peas are blooming. Something (either opossums or armadillos) keeps eating their new lettuce and spinach, though. They have to use raised beds because the ground there is too hard and full of rocks to make a garden in; they have more rocks even than our ground in Maine!

After Van Buren, our final visit on this trip was with Mark, Cheryl and family in Mahomet, Ill. The kids, Jacob, Jessica and Jana all love Snuffy, but we have to be careful that he doesn't get loose to chase cats; he is so strong that the girls can't hold his leash if he takes the notion to chase a cat. We enjoyed seeing Jana get her Girl Scout sash and some patches to put on it. Now to get them sewed on! Cheryl's job.

They live close to a large county park, and we like walking on their walking/biking trails; Mona mostly likes it because there aren't any big hills! It's always fun to visit family. We have had a great time, but now we are anxious to get home again!

ON THE MARK—Telstar's Bailey Davis watches her penalty shot elude the St. Dom's goalkeeper in Saturday's Western Class C semi-final field hockey matchup at Telstar. The Rebels won, 5-1, and were scheduled to play North Yarmouth Academy yesterday (Wednesday) at home for the Western Class C Championship. Results will be posted on the Citizen website Thursday. Gould 3, Kents Hill 2; Oct. 20—Gould's Mallory Turndorf scored at 19:37 on a rushed shot, followed by a reverse scoop in to the upper right corner by Erin Smith. Shannon Littlefield scored Gould's final goal six minutes into the second half. Goalie Becca Anderson had only one save in the first half due to strong Husky defense.

Youth Football

Woodstock Wolfpack 22, Winthrop 6; Oct. 20—Woodstock finished their season with a decisive 22-6 victory over the Winthrop Ramblers, evening their record at 3 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie. Winthrop took a 6-0 lead on a short drive after blocking a punt mid-way through the first half and that was all they would get for the rest of the day as the Wolfpack defense rose to the challenge and smothered the Rambler offense. Woodstock struck back on the last play of the first half when tight end Corey Howard plucked a Kyle Peterson pass out of the hands of a Winthrop defender and ran in unchallenged for the touchdown. Derick Poland added the two-point conversion for an 8-6 halftime lead. Woodstock pulled away in the third quarter with two more scores - the first being a quarter-back sneak at the goal line by Danny Whitney to make it 14-6 and later Nick Mills provided the final score with a improvised back-and-forth run which he broke down the right side-line. Another Derick Poland two-point run finished the scoring as the defense preserved the win. Great team effort. After the varsity game, the JV's completed a perfect 6-0 season with a 36-0 thumping of the Rambler JV's. Two scores by halfback Eric Varnum and one each by slotback Drew Wilson, halfback Dylan Poland, and quarterback Nick Mills accounted for the rout and fullback Richard Leonard added 3 two-point conversions. The defense completely shut Winthrop down and never allowed them on the Wolfpack side of the 50-yard line. Excellent job by all players and congratulations on a great football season.—coach Jim Rose Greenwood Youth Football Fifth and Sixth Grade: Jay/Livermore 22, Greenwood Spartans 0; Oct. 21—The Spartan's played a strong first half but were unable to finish out their drives resulting in another loss. The Spartans marched down the field on their opening drive with some nice runs by Maverick Griffin, Bronson Dean, and Chris Chappie. With Nick Johnson at quarterback the team ran its best looking sweep of the year but came up short on the score. The Spartans drove the field on their following possession but came up short again. However, a fullback pass from Zach Mills to Christopher Wilday gave the crowd plenty to cheer about. Defensively, Zach Wheeler, Ty Cherkis, Dean, and Josh Lane all had solid games.—coach Andy Wheeler.

CLASS C CHAMP
Telstar senior Kyle Maines won the 2007 State Class C Individual Golf Championship on Oct. 13. He and fellow MVC golfer Shawn Keenan of Carrabec tied as co-Champions with scores of 77 at Natanis Golf Course.

Newsletter of School Administrative District #44: Andover • Bethel • Greenwood • Newry • Woodstock

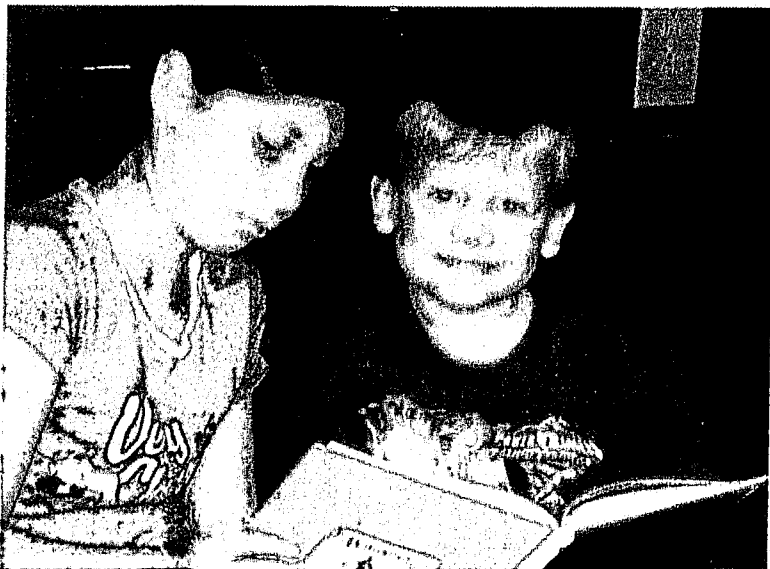

SCHOOL NEWS FROM AROUND THE DISTRICT

Fire Chief Mike Jodrey stands next to the aerial ladder truck from Newry before helping first-grade teacher Mrs. Salway step into the safety basket for the 105-foot ascent over Crescent Park School. First-graders watch with excitement as their teacher rises above them.

Max Godomsky from Ms. Smith's kindergarten is proud to show everyone the design he created with his Geoboard.

Ms. Haines' fourth-graders and Ms. Smith's kindergartners from CPS are reading/computer buddies. Each week, we alternate from Dell Lab and being read to. Above, Jillian DeLallo is reading to Jacob Gould.

All SAD #44 first-graders learned about alpacas from their recent field trip to Sunday River Alpaca Farm in West Bethel. Above, Mrs. Hoeh demonstrates how alpaca hairs are spun into yarn.

In observance of Fire Safety Week, members of the Bethel Fire Department visited local schools. In grade one, Randy Harrington, Jim Bennett, and Jeff Angevine wore the firefighting gear that they would wear when entering a building on fire. Here, junior fireman Andy Whitney talks to first-graders about his training with the department.

CPS kindergartners recently took a field trip to Gibson's Apple Orchard where they watched a cider press in action and then picked a bag of delicious Macintosh apples. Pictured are Ryan Anderson and Finn McLaughlin enjoying a tasty treat.

Mrs. Meisner's second-graders at WES working in their Math Cooperative groups. Front: Duncan Forbes, Mykiah Bennett, Back: Rickie McLean, Blake Rothwell, Morgan Reavis.

Andover 2nd and 3rd graders display the fossil seashells they made with plaster of paris in Mr. Sabin's science class.

WALKING TO SCHOOL—Woodstock and Andover elementary school pupils recently participated in International Walk to School Week. The entire student body, staff and volunteer parents walked. AES students gathered at the Andover Fire Station. They were able to walk safely on a sidewalk. Woodstock's grade 5 leads the group along Rumford Ave. from Rte 232. There is no sidewalk, so to aid in keeping the walkers safe, the Woodstock Fire Dept. stationed volunteers at either end of 232 to inform motorists.

The Andover Elementary School hosted a special celebration for grandparents and friends on October 4th. Mrs. Lee's K-1 students presented information they have been learning about our solar system. Above, Natausha Cogley described the largest planet of all - Jupiter.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

David Fuller, agriculture and natural resources professional at the University of Maine's Cooperative Extension Service, was the featured speaker at the fourth lecture in the 2007 Bethel Historical Society series on "Maine Character and Characters" held on Oct. 11 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House in Bethel.

Fuller, a graduate of the University of Southern Maine and the University of Maine, is an educator and researcher, who concentrates on non-timber forest products, which includes spruce gum, had his first chew of spruce gum as a boy of four. He still chews while managing his woodlot in northern Maine.

For more than a half dozen years, he has been researching and documenting the history of spruce gum gathering and marketing to the world. During his power point presentation, Fuller noted that collecting and chewing spruce gum has been a Maine tradition for generations.

He also provided illustrations of the equipment used to gather spruce gum along with examples of boxes, labels and ads from business created to market this product.

Currently, he is collecting information about the history of harvesting and/or commercial sale of spruce gum in the state of Maine. For those having information, photos, artifacts, etc., to share, his address is David Fuller, Agriculture and Natural Resource Professional, University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service, 147 Farmington Falls Road, Office 2, Farmington, ME 04938, telephone 778-4650 or (800) 287-1478. This lecture and others in the series have been made possible in part by a grant from the Maine Humanities Council.

From

Western Mountains Senior College

You're in for a treat if you attend the field trip this Saturday, Oct. 27, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Mahoosuc Guide Service in Newry. Kevin Slater, co-owner, will be on hand to introduce us to the Huskies that pull dog sleds in the beautiful Maine woods. Kevin will explain what it takes to be a sled dog and tell us about the day in the life of a working dog.

When we return to the lodge to enjoy cider and donuts, Kevin will give a presentation on why dogs are so good for our blood pressure, social life and much more.

The field trip is sponsored by the "To Your Health" fall series of Western Mountain Senior College, SAD44 Adult Education and the Bethel Family Health Center. The public is invited and admission is free. To help with planning, please RSVP to Rosabelle at 824-2053 or Wendy at 824-8610. The Mahoosuc Guide Service is 6.9 miles from the Bear River Trading Post in Newry and specific directions will be given when you call to RSVP.

All About Gems

Down Home Maine returns on Nov. 1, at 4:30 p.m. at the Gehring House with another unique and creative speaker, Jim Mann of Mt. Mann Jewelers.

Patrons can enjoy hors d'oeuvres, wine and beverages as Jim relates his lifelong journey of mineral collecting, gem cutting and jewelry design. He is an acknowledged expert on both mining and the cutting of Maine's gemstones. Some of his gems, minerals and one-of-a-kind jewelry pieces are exhibited at the Maine State Museum, Harvard Mineralogical Museum and fine private collections worldwide.

Down Home Maine is sponsored jointly by WMSC and the Bethel Historical Society. The program is free and open to the public. However, voluntary contributions will be gratefully accepted to help defray Senior College expenses.

Alzheimer's

Peg Gagnon, information and outreach specialist for the Maine Alzheimer's Association, returned for the final session on Dementia. She said Alzheimer's is the most common form of dementia affecting some 60 to 70 percent of those with dementia or memory loss.

Peg emphasized that people with Alzheimer's need support. Greet them with a smile and you'll get it back. She said the only memory that will not go away is emotional memory. We must tune in to the emotions of what is being said and done. She stressed that behavior is communication and aggression is not necessary. The greatest gift we can give them is to let them feel they have meaning.

Peg listed and discussed the various changes that occur when a person has Alzheimer's and gave concrete examples and suggestions on how to help. Anyone seeking an answer to a question of any kind should feel free to call the Maine Alzheimer's Association at (800) 272-3900. The Alzheimer's Association concentrates on giving as much support as possible to the caregiver. She said they have a very large library of material and can forward informative flyers on a number of topics. Peg also referred interested persons to her website for more information: www.alz.org/maine.

Bethel Lions Club

This Thursday the Bethel

Lions will meet at the United Methodist Church on Main Street in Bethel. To better cope with the needs of its members the Bethel Lions Club has voted to curtail meetings to the second Tuesday of every month only. The fourth Thursday meetings will no longer be held, unless ongoing projects and such warrant the extra time. Now all you folks out there who were unable to maintain such a hectic schedule can join us for fun and productive sessions.

With construction underway the IGA will not be available for our annual promotion of White Cane Day. Nationally White Cane Safety Day is observed on Oct. 15; however October in general is used for Lions Clubs everywhere to promote the independence of the blind. We will be back for next year though!

With busy leadership in place we are postponing the formation of a Leo Club in the Bethel area; any young adults interested may contact Becky Morin at jerbeck@megalink.net or Leslie Baumgartel at lavender@megalink.net, and when we are better able to get the club off the ground you will be notified.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
 BRING THE OUTSIDE INSIDE!
 No matter what climate you live in, you can enhance your home's hidden potential by bringing the outside into your home. There are many ways to enliven a "stale" interior with plants, lighting, water features and other natural elements. Minor remodeling projects can be tailored to suit your taste and budget.
 Study the placement of your home on the property, and evaluate its accessibility to sunlight. A small window can be enlarged to let more light into a room and expand the view. A skylight added to a dark room can make a dramatic improvement. You can create an entertainment area for guests by installing a sliding glass door that opens onto your garden, patio or deck. Consider adding a sunroom or installing a decorative stone fountain.
 You can also consider ways to enhance the outdoor features of your home and integrate them into the living space of your home. Such improvements can often greatly increase the value of your property.

Why would anyone bank anywhere else?

A message from Peter Judkins, President

The national mortgage crisis that you've read and heard about presents a terrible hardship for those involved. Over the past few years, many people have been put into home mortgages that they cannot afford to repay. I'm pleased to say that Franklin Savings Bank is not involved in this crisis. We continue to follow prudent lending practices and make every effort to lend only to qualified buyers. At Franklin Savings Bank, we work for the customer as well as the bank.

We're a mutual institution. We don't answer to stockholders, we answer to you, our depositors and borrowers. We've been serving the needs of our communities for nearly 140 years and we plan to continue doing so for many years to come.
